DOCKET OF 276 CASES
Called at Short Calendar Session Friday—Number Stricken From List—Court Adjourns to June 22.

A short calendar session of the Windham county superior court was held on this city Friday afternoon, but no business of importance was transacted, with the exception of the calling of the docket of cases which have been on the list several years, one since September, 1903.

On the short calendar list, most of the cases were continued until the next session, June 22. No assignments were made. Attorneys Harvey, Wing and Bowen, in the case of William N. Foster, administrator of Mary Turner, will probably submit briefs. Two witnesses were examined in the case of Charles L. Torrey et al vs. R. J. Hanna. The case is over a mortgage for $350, held by the plaintiff and made out by the defendant. It is on property near Putnam, valued at about $1,000, and which has been abandoned for the past two years. The damages amount to about $1,100 in the case. Nothing definite was done Friday, and it was concluded to submit briefs for both sides agreed that a receiver should be appointed but could not agree on the man, so it was left to the court to decide. The case is worth about $2,500 but with a few creditors.

Attorney W. A. King, representing Mark U. Anderson in an uncontested divorce case, said that he wished to amend his complaint and he was given permission by the court to do so.

The case of Harry Weinstein vs. Samuel Spector, was a hearing for the appointment of a receiver for the property for both sides agreed that a receiver should be appointed but could not agree on the man, so it was left to the court to decide. The case is worth about $2,500 but with a few creditors.

The parade formed in front of the Y. M. C. A. and marched to their garden. It was led by a young couple, attired in blue jeans, white blouses and big straw hats; one girl carried a banner, telling the purpose of the parade, and the other carried a basket of flowers. The parade was followed by a group of young ladies, some in bloomers, while some wore as elegant as to wear skirts.

The young ladies agreed to cultivate individual plots and will sell the fruits of their labors at retail, the proceeds to be divided between the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A.

WAR NEWS DIGEST

Stories of Activities and Conditions Throughout the United States and on the Battle Fronts

Go in or Currency Not Be Sent by Mail to Foreign Countries

Because of numerous attempts to send through the mails to foreign countries coin and currency, the Post Office Department is again calling attention to the prohibition.

"In conformity with the proclamation, and the regulations thereunder, issued by the President on September 7, 1917, concerning the export or shipment of coin and currency, it is hereby ordered that United States coin or currency, gold coins, whether of United States or foreign mintage, and gold bullion or gold dust, transmission through the regular or parcel-post mails to countries outside of the United States and its possessions."

This prohibition does not apply to the current coin and silver coins, which remain subject to other provisions.

Canadian Order Limits Holdings of Wheat and Sugar

A Canadian order in council provides that no person shall export or provide for export, except to manufacturers of flour, bakers, confectioners, wholesale or retail dealers, or persons living at a great distance from the coast, a quantity of wheat or sugar, shall hold or have in his control more flour, made wholly or in part from wheat, than is sufficient for his ordinary requirements for a period not exceeding 15 days.

Anyone living at a distance greater than 3 miles and more than 5 miles from a licensed dealer may hold or control flour made wholly or in part from wheat up to an amount sufficient for his ordinary requirements for a period not exceeding 30 days. Anyone living more than 5 and less than 10 miles from a licensed dealer may have sufficient for his ordinary requirements up to 60 days, while a person living more than 10 miles from such a dealer may have sufficient for his ordinary requirements for a period up to 120 days.

American Teams To Teach Baseball To London

A committee on public information representative in London says: London has never heard of a baseball season before, but will get its chance this year when the American baseball league gets its schedule of games well underway. There are eight American and Canadian teams recruited from various organizations stationed in London, with games scheduled for each Saturday during the summer.

Thousands of American soldiers who may pass through London, or may be invalided or stationed here, are in a fair way to be made to feel that England is the best place to live in and that English hearts are kept warm for them.

"Buck" Ensign and the Sammy's "highly" is the way the English press puts it in urging readers to entertain the American troops. "Highly" is the word used for every soldier who wants to entertain his fighting work; the place where friends, recreation, and home-like comfort await him.

The Western Dispatch recently called for suggestions for a public entertainment to be offered American soldiers and an interesting and profitable list of suggestions has been received. The idea that found greatest favor, however, was that of offering a public entertainment to the soldiers.

An officer commanding an American squadron operating with the British fleet has reported on a late inspection and speaks in high terms of the present state of efficiency in which he finds both ships and men.

"Vessels show the most gratifying improvement in battery and fire control," he said. "Our ships are smart, quick, and span, and have been re-

THE BROWNING GUN

Statement by War Department Regarding Test Which Has Been Made For Aid Use.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Washington, D. C., May 31.—The war department has authorized the following statement regarding the use of the Browning gun in aircraft service:

The Browning machine gun has successfully undergone a test to determine its value for use with aircraft. This is one of three types of machine guns with which the rate of fire can be so synchronized with the revolutions of the propeller of a tractor airplane that the gun can be fired by the pilot of a combat plane through the revolving blades. Firing in that fashion, it is necessary to aim the machine gun by steering the plane directly at the target. The direction of the plane gives direct to the fire and the pilot can fire the machine gun while controlling the plane.

Connected With Engine

Airplane propellers revolve at from 800 to 2,000 revolutions per minute. The machine gun is connected with the airplane engine by a mechanical or hydraulic device, and impulses from the crank shaft are transmitted to the machine gun. The rate of fire of the machine gun is constant and its fire is synchronized with the revolving propeller blades by "chasing" a certain percentage of the impulses it receives from the airplane engine and by having the remaining impulses trip or pull the trigger so that the gun fires just at the fraction of the second when the propeller blades are clear of the line of fire.

The pilot operates the gun by means of a lever which controls the circuit and allows the impulses to trip the trigger.

Severe Test Given Gun

The test given the Browning gun was severe. A gun was mounted on the frame of an American combat plane and connected with the airplane engine. The test was conducted on the ground and in place of the propeller a metal disk was attached to the crank shaft. The Browning gun was then required to register hits on the metal disk as it revolved at varying speeds from 400 to 2,000 revolutions per minute. The gun fired "bang fire" or delay in action on the part of the gun would have been shown by the failure of the bullets to hit precisely on the spot on the propeller blades, the center of the zone of fire. The gun functioned perfectly.

Will Also Use Martin Gun

Besides the Browning, the United States will also employ the Martin aircraft gun in a system of weapons. Several thousand of these have been manufactured and the gun is in quantity production.

The British and French use the Vickers as a synchronized machine gun.

The Lewis aircraft machine gun is used by the French and American forces, but for a different purpose. In a two-seated combat plane, perfect machine guns are mounted forward to be used in the attack and strike a propeller blade without causing the airplane to fall, but the danger of such occurrences is nevertheless obvious. For that reason, every effort is made to provide the most perfect type of weapon for this work. Only specially selected ammunition is used.

Ordnance Equipment Ready for Soldiers Leaving for France

The Army Ordnance Department has this far met every demand imposed by the new program for overseas shipment of American troops, according to a statement by the department. The great majority of the equipment of American forces to France, no infantryman goes aboard ship without United States Model 1917 rifle (modified), gas mask, canteen, haversack, pack carrier, bandoliers, bayonet scabbard, and full mess equipment.

Transportation is today a limiting factor in the shipment of ordnance material overseas, especially because of the present necessity of increasing the transport of infantry regiments. Sufficient supplies of artillery—French 75-mm. and 155-mm. are already in France and meet the present demand. Sufficient machine guns are also immediately available for American forces in France.

More than 2,000,000 members of American fighting forces are now inured by the United States Government, and approximately 1,000 applications are being received daily. Application for insurance must be made within 120 days after joining the service.

Prior to the war the Treasury prepared approximately 150,000 checks annually for the payment of interest on registered bonds and loans. The issue of these 150,000 checks being distributed through the year. In the May payment of interest on registered bonds, approximately 1,000,000 checks were prepared. Prior to the war practically all the belligerent countries except the United Kingdom and Italy, exported sugar. The total amount of sugar exported in 1913 is estimated that the allies must import a minimum of 1,200,000 tons.

According to a statement by the Department of Agriculture, there has been an actual shortage of more than 2,000,000 tons of sugar annually since the war began. Sugar is the most practically all the belligerent countries except the United Kingdom and Italy, exported sugar. The total amount of sugar exported in 1913 is estimated that the allies must import a minimum of 1,200,000 tons.

There are many number of substitutes for marmalades. Most of them are prepared from garden vegetables instead of from fruits, with a minimum amount of sugar.

Substitute soap is offered for sale, which is said to have been prepared from the oil in berries and from pumice stone. It lacks, however, the one main characteristic of soap, that of working up into a rich lather (either, otherwise it is very good). Substitutes are also to be had for laundry bluing.

Substitute bicycle tires are sometimes made of two concentric iron rings with small springs between them. They are very serviceable on
